CONDITION OF THE CROPS.

REPORTS ON CORN AND OTHER PRODUCTS FROM ALL OVER THE UNION.

The U. S. Weather Bureau's weekly report on crop conditions is as follows:

With more moderate temperatures and good rains over a large part of the drouth-stricken area, the weather conditions of the week ending August 5 were the most favorable to agricultural interests in the states of the Central Valleys that have prevailed since the latter part of June. In the states of the Missouri Valley the severe and protracted drought has been very largely relieved, but to the eastward of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio River only partial relief has been afforded by insufficient showers, the drought conditions in the Upper Ohio Valley being still as bad as at a previous time this season. The Gulf and portions of the South Atlantic States and Texas also had rain. In the Middle Atlantic States and New England, and throughout the Pacific Coast districts the week has proved generally favorable.

In the great corn states the corn, and fortunately a much larger proportion than usual of this year's crop was planted late—has experienced a general, and in some cases a decided improvement, but the early corn has been practically ruined. In Kansas the cooler weather, with better distributed rains, decidedly improved conditions in the eastern and western divisions of the state, and slightly benefited the central portions, and in many of the eastern, western, south-central counties late corn still promises from one-fourth to one-half a crop. In Nebraska the improvement has been less marked and is confined largely the northern and extreme eastern counties. In Iowa the late planted is making a better showing, and under favorable conditions the balance of the season promises a considerable yield of sound grain; the extent of irreparable damage in this state cannot yet be estimated. In Missouri, where good showers fell, except in portions of the southern section, late corn has been much improved, but elsewhere it continues to deteriorate. In Illinois corn has greatly improved in the northern part of the state, and deteriorated in parts of the central and southern portions. In a few favored districts Northern Indiana corn is still promising, but elsewhere the upland and early planted is a mere beyond recovery; with immediate rains about an average crop of lowland and late planted will be produced. Over the greater portions of Ohio the condition of corn has been materially lowered, a portion of the crop in the southwest portion of the state being past help; in Northwestern Ohio its condition is more hopeful. In Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia the condition of corn has been materially reduced during the past week.

In the Middle Atlantic States an excellent crop of corn is now practically assured.

The weather conditions in the spring wheat region have been very favorable for harvesting, which is nearing completion in the south districts. Some damage has resulted from hail in South Dakota, and the unfavorable effects of recent hot weather in North Dakota are becoming apparent. Some grain in the last-mentioned state has been badly lodged. In Washington a splendid crop is promised, and in Oregon the yields are better than expected.

The out-harvest is mostly completed and the yields are generally satisfactory.

A very general improvement in the condition of cotton over the greater part of the cotton belt is reported. The least favorable reports are received from the north-central and the extreme eastern districts, where shedding and rust, and in sections browning to tan continue to be reported. Over the southern portions of the eastern districts cotton is now opening, and considerable picking has been done in Texas.

In the Atlantic Coast districts tobacco has made very favorable progress, but in the states of the Ohio Valley it has made but little growth and is badly in need of rain.

The outlook for apples continues very discouraging, a very inferior crop being generally reported.

Plowing for fall seeding has made decided progress in the Missouri Valley and Atlantic Coast States during the week.

THE HOG A MONEY-MAKER.

The first thing to consider in raising hogs for profit is the breed sow. I do not think the breed has as much to do with it as good individuals. I never keep any broad sows but those out of a litter of at least ten, and good, large, growthy ones. By so doing you may expect a large litter each time, and that is the very foundation when raising hogs for profit. My sows for the last three or four years have averaged ten pigs at a litter, with a correspondent in the Poultry Farmer. Mate the sows with a good boar so that you may expect the pigs about the last of February or first of March, and do not wait until the last day to have good wind proof houses ready, and with plenty of straw thrown in a week or so before, so the sow will have it mashed fine and you need have no fear of zero weather. After a few days the sow with a large litter should be gradually brought up to full feed of as great variety as the farm can furnish. I do not think it pays to buy too much feed to make a balanced ration. Oats ground with corn and mixed with bran and skins are accessible to every farmer. For this and other reason I always have my cows come in fresh in the fall so I have milk for my fall pigs and also for my winter and spring ones. I will say that we sell our hams at the creamery and always buy small skim milk to fill our cans. In having pigs thus fed, by the time a good clover field is ready for them, they may be weaned and the sows bred for early fall pigs. In summer the best ration is good clover with some shelter corn in a pen away from the larger ones, and if you can still get the creamy skim milk. With this ration the pigs will weigh at least 125 pounds by the time new corn is ready to market, and then possible to get them as large as possible before the break in price and let them go. So do yourself a favor, if possible to get the break in price and let them go. So do yourself a favor, if possible to get over $1 per bushel for your feed, after taking out all other expenses, and it is the easiest money made on a farm. One fall litter there is not much profit, but by having the pigs farrowed not later than the last of August, so they will get a start before winter, I think it pays to raise them. By the time they will drink I am to have all my own fresh, thus giving my pigs a balanced ration on milk and corn and oats, and if not too high bran. I think this is the best way to get them to market for the first market, and letting the spring litter have the clover and lessening the chances of cholera by not having so many on hand at once.—Corn Belt's Rural World.

It makes new and pure blood, to mineral and animal acids, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula.
